FIGHTING THE BILL.

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL IN

The Figures Cut Down Very Lew - The Probable Na-tional Resircad Commissioners - The Late War-like Speeches The Negro Matthews Again Rejected - Other News, Et?.

WASHINGTON, January 26 .- [Special.] -The river and harbor bill endured severe tribulation in the house today. A more determined effort to defeat this appropriation has never been made. On a square vote it was known that a large majority of the house was in favor of the bill, but its opponents, led by Mr. Hepburn, of Icwa, resorted to filibustering tactics to defeat it. They succeeded in worrying the committee considerably, but were finally squelched. The previous question has been ordered, and the bill will pass the house tomorrow. It is the smallest river and harbor appropriation for years-being only seven millions and a half. It will be difficult to increase this amount, for almost any amount which the senate might put on, would meet with much opposition in the house.

THE LOOSE TALK of Senators Ingalls and Frye on the necessity of retaliatory measures against Canada, to secure the rights of American fishermen, made as little impression here as it did in Eugland and Canada. These war like statesmen flew off the handle, and as has been well said, played to the galleries. The cabinet discussed this question yesterday, and while the Edmunds bill was approved as a necessary measure for the protection af the rights of citizens, there was no discussion of the prospect of war. This is regarded as existing only in the imagination of such demagogues as Ingalls and Frye. THE RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS.

The president told Speaker Carlisle today that he would appoint no man on the inter-state commerce committee who did not have a reputation sufficient to inspire confidence in his integrity and capacity. The list of candidates for these five places continues to increase rapidly. The following list comprises only the most preminent of the aspirants: Ex-Governor Pattison, of Pennsylvania; Colonel William R. Morrison: Civil Service Commissioner Oberly, R. J. Morgan, Jr., of Illinois; George B. Loring, Congressman Lovering of Massachusetts; ex-Governor Proctor Knott, "Cerro Gordo" Williams and Cengressman Willis of Kentucky; Governor Van Wyck, Allen W. Thurman, son of Judge Thurman, John D. Kernan, son of ex-Senator Kernan of New York, Congressman Boyle and ex-Attorney General Cassidy of Pennsylvania, ex-Governor Smith and John Screven of Georgia, Senator Conger and E. W. Kinsly of Massachusetts, John F. Swift and W. H. Foote of California: J. Randolph Tucker and Robert B. Beverly, of Virginia; H. B. Andrews and C. S. Mitcheil, of Texas; Wm. W. Long, consul at Hamburg; E. K. Converse, of New Orleans; Colonel George Davis, of North Carolina; John Hughes, president of the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad; ex-Railroad Commissioner M. L. Bonham and General Ed McCrady, of South Carolina: and W. L. Bragg. late presi dent of the Alabama railroad commission; Joseph Nimmo, formerly chief of the bureau of statistic, and Colonel W. W. Peabody, of Cincinnati, formerly president of the Ohio and Mississippi railroad.

THE PRESIDENT WILL APPROVE IT. Ex-Governor Smith arrived here tonight. Edward Baxter, dean of Vanderbilt university, and general attorney for the Louisville and Nashville railroad, will appear before Attorney General Garland tomorrow and argue the constitutionality of the bill. Other railroads will be represented by prominent counsel. That the bill will be approved by the president is a forgone conclusion.

The secretary of the interior says he will require 221 additional clerks to meet the demands of the Mexican pension bill. It is estimated there are 34,350 surviving soldiers of that war, and 13,000 widows who will be entitled to pensions under this bill. The expendi tures for the first year will probably be nearly five millions.

THE NEGRO MATTHEWS.

This afternoon the senate again rejected the negro Matthews, of Albany, to be register of deeds in this district. Only seventeen senators voted for his confirmation, nearly all of them democrats. Senator Brown favored the confirmation in the committee and the senate. It is not likely the president will again send Matthews's name to the senate: but it is said that he will nominate some other colored man for this office.

Senator Colquitt left for Atlanta tonight to be gone until next Monday. Senator Brown will go home next Saturday night to attend the annual meeting of directors of the West ern and Atlantic railroad.

Major A. O. Bacon is here with his two daughters. Miss Bacon received today with Mrs. Manning, and Miss Gussie Bacon with Mrs. Carlisle. Major Bacon will leave for Georgia tomorrow. PREPARING THE BLOODY SHIRT gate Alleged Outrages in Texas. WASHINGTON, January 26 .- In the senate among the bills reported and placed on the calcudar, was one by Mr. Miller from the com-mittee on agriculture, creating a department of government known as the department of agriculture; one by Mr. Sewell, from the commi tee on library, for the completion of the monu-ment to Mary, the mother of Washington; one by Mr. Eustis, from the committee on epidemic disease, authorizing the removal of the quaran-tine station from Ship Island, Mississippi.

Messrs, Hoar, Frye and Pugh, were appointed a committee of conference on the act relating to contested elections.

Mr. Hoar offered an amendment to the rules

As soon as a quorum shall appear, prayer shall be offered by the chaplain, and the journal be read. He said that the object of the proposed change was to secure the presence of a quorum of the senate before prayer was offered by the chaplain. If the sanete presence by chaplain. If the senate proposed to continue the expression of reverence to the Creator of power for guidance and support, it should be done decently and with decorum. The specta-cle of divine service in the senate chamber with only one, two or three senators present, ought not longer be continued. Referred to the committee on rules.

The senate proceeded to the consideration of the resolution reported yesterday by Mr.

Hoar, instructing the committee on privileges and elections to investigate the allegati made by three residents of Washington co Ty. Texas, as to their being driven from their homes, compelled to abandon their property and deprived of the right of suffrage in that

Mr. Coke opposed the resolution. He was not averse (nor was the state of Texas) to an investigation of the charges, properly made, against the state involving a subject over which congress had jurisdiction; but he protested that the proposed investigation was not a subject within the jurisdiction of congress The state of Texas had a state autonomy. Her constitution and laws were in full force and operation. She could redress all grievances, operation. She could redress all grievances, personal or otherwise, occurring within her borders. The subject was one peculiarly within the jurisdiction of the state and the resolution was an intermeddling with something belonging solely to the state and outside of the jurisdiction of the general government. He gave his theory of the case to the effect that a respectable white democrat had been shot by a colored man at the polls, near Brenham, Tex.; that three colored men had been arrested and placed in jail charged with that crime, that a mob had taken them out of jail and hanged them; and that three petitioners. Hackworth. mob had taken them out of jail and hanged them; and that three petitioners, Hackworth, Moore and Schultz, who had been prominent in influencing and deluding the negro population there, had supposed their lives to be in danger and had fled from the country. That was all there was in it. He had received today a telegram from D. C. Giddings, of Buenham, formerly representative in congress from Texas, stating that the three petitioners were of the worst type of scalawags; that they had been mainly instrumental in stirring up strife between the races, and were charged with instigating the murder reforred to of a man named Bolton; that they were not driven from their homes, nor were their lives threatened, but that their own guilty consciences had caused them to leave the county for the country's good. He submitted that the for the county's good. He submitted that the senate should not adopt the resolution, because to do so would be to allow the fair fame of one of the states of the union to be aspersed, without the states of the union to be aspersed, without testimony. It would be an injustice which should not be tolerated in the senate.

Mr. Hoar defended and advocated the resolution. As to the statement that colored men had killed a peaceful, respectable white democrat, who had given no offense, that was not a very probable statement. Such things did not often occur in Texas or elsewhere. The feet was that the men who was killed was The fact was, that the man who was killed was disguised as a kuklux.

Mr. Coke denied that, and said that there was not a word of truth in it.

Mr. Hoar reasserted his statement. Mr. Saulsbury (member of the committee) protested against the committee on privileges and elections being made the dumping ground for every scalawag who chose to go there and make clarges against his neighbors.

Mr. Edmunds advocated the resolution.

Mr. Eastis (members of the committee) opposed it, as "the hoisting of the bloody shirt a little in advance of the usual season." It was simply a proposition to make political capital.

Messrs. Hawley and Evarts advocated the resolution.

The senate then resumed consideration of the bill to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with agricultural colleges established under the act of July 2, 1862.

Nr. Morgan stated his objection to the bill to be that it did not place any control over the subject within the power of the several states. He thought that the control of agricultural colleges and of the proposed experiment sta-tions should be placed entirely in the hands of

The speaker replied that that was a matter over which he had no jurisdiction. He must be governed by the report of the committee of the whole, which had reported the bill, with the recommendation that the substitute be adopted. If that substitute were not agreed to, the question would be on ordering the original bill to a third reading.

Mr. Willis toped, in view of the ruling, that the substitute would be rejected.

The substitute was rejected—yeas 46, nays New York, January 26.—The situation of the coal handlers' strike in Jersey City and its outskirts is changed today only by the coal shippers extending their opinions and strengthening their defenses. The battlefield has been transferred to New York and Brooklyn. The longshoremen are considering the question of having a general strike along the docks and piers of the city. An order was issued yesterday to all coal shovelers to refuse to handle "scab coal." The result is that today there is no coal being loaded in this city by upion men. The stoppage will effect all steamship lines who are depen-dent on them for ordering dent on them for ordering supplies. The longshoremen have encouraging reports from Newport News, West Point and Nor-folk, in Virginia. They state that the Old Dominion company has much difficulty there in handling freight. It is said by the men that the company has had its reshert session of the preceding congress at a corresponding date, seven bills had been passed by the house and one by the senate, while the state congress at its short session, before the end of January, had passed ten appropriation bills in the house and six in the senate.

The tariff and revenue bill prepared by Mr. Randall and his friends has been printed and the date of its presentation in the house will be fixed at a meeting tomorrow night. It is entitled "A bill to reduce and equalize the duties on imports, to reduce internal revenue taxes, and to modify the laws in relation to the collection of revenue," and it will be a substitute for house bill 9702 introduced by Mr. Randall last session. The provisions of the bill have already been substantially described. Copies were furnished to Speaker Carlisic and Mr. Morrison, and to the speaker it was represented that it was a measure for which perfection was not ciaimed, but which would secure the support of a majority of the house. The speaker did not express himself upon the merits of the bill, but asked to be allowed an opportunity to examine it. Mr. Morrison, ask the merits of the bill. The executive committee of district 49 Knights of Labor at a meeting today, decided to advise all men employed in any way on steamships or about them in placing their cargoes, or carting, or transferring or supply-ing coal, to stop work for three days. As many as can are requested to be present at a meeting at Cooper union tomorrow night, which has been gotten up by leaders of the district assembly to protest against the coal managers who, they say, are all banded together to raise the price of coal to consumers. As soon as the executive committee's action became known, meeting were held by local assemblies, in which are bag and semer, coal handlers, grain handlers, caulkers, tinsmiths, ship carpenters, pump riggers, tug boat, deck hands, and engineers, longshoremen and brakemen. It was decided to longshoremen and brakemen. It was decided to act upon the advice of No. 49: The statiscian of the district assembly 49 says that there are upwards of 23,000 in all of these local assemblies, but they are not all employed on the North river front. His computation is that 17,000 men will stop work. Probably $,000 or 10,000 men will stop work. Through the influence of the home club, Morrison was refused admittance to the Richmond convention on a technical point. Last summer a number of the home club attempted to make trouble for Morrison by asserting that he had spoken in slighting terms of the work girls employed in the Higgins carpet factory. The three local assemblies, which comprise 2,500 employes, held a mass meeting and denounced the author of the story. They pledged support to Morrison. Several months earlier, members of the home club, in District Assembly 49, started an organization known as "The Mutual" started an organization known as "The Mutual Protective Carpet Workers' union," among Higgins's employes, which was done to divide members of the carpet workers' district and to weaken Morrison's influence. A committee of the Kuights of Labor had waited on Superintendent Upton, and demanded 'tile reinstatement of the boy and dismissal of the foreman. This was refused, and a strike was thereupon ordered. CANADIAN COMMENT

On the Passage of the Retaliatory Bill by the Senate.

TORONTO, Ont., January 26.—Referring to "Globe," of today says :

"Globe," of today says:

The United States senate, since it became a caucus of plutocrats, has displayed little statesmanship and its decadence in general esteem, will be furthered by its "retallatory" isheries bill. When no regular evidence was before them and with mone in rebuttal of the statements of angry fishermen, senators of the United States have brought Canada up for trial, pronounced her guilty and put the weapon for her punishment into the president's hands. The use of that weapon will injure American trade at least as much as Canadian. It does not lessen the contempt due the senatorial legiselators. Their game, in its diplomatic aspect, is the old one of alarming Great Britain into buildozing Canadia.

The Mail says:

Retaliatory "mesure has been passed by the United States and as a result poor Canada is to suffer all the frowns of the republic, if she persists in enforcing her treaty rights. Canadian authorities simply required the fishermen to obey feustoma laws, such as all American vessels frequenting Canadian ports are obliged to obey, and report on entrance and to clear regularly upon departures. Only two sciences were made for violation by the Americans of the treaty, by purchasing bait. The Canadian government has not in a single instance refused any fair rights of hospitality, having allowed all reasonable facilities for shelter, repairs, obtaining wood and water, getting medical advice, and reasonable supplies for the sustemance of life, when vessels have run out of these, and for this eastern fishermen want the American people to refuse to purchase from or sell to Canada. The Mail says:

SAD STATE OF AFFAIRS

IN THE CITY OF MACON AND ITS ENVIRONS.

Bad for the City and Worse for the Citizens-Numer Acts of Cussedness-Hon, John B. Finen's Address-Superior Court-Other News-Personal Notes and Otherwise, MACON, Ga., January 26 .- [Special.] -There is a sad state of affairs existing in the city of Macon. Every night depredations on the person and property of various persons is enlangered by thieves of various degrees, from the small pilferer to the bold, bad burglar.

It is getting dangerous for ladies to walk the streets alone after sunset. Satchel snatching has grown so common that but little notice is taken of it The sneak thieves get in their work by slipping into hallways and unprotected rooms and carrying off whatever is portable.

Stores are broken open and their contents carried away and disposed of. A case in point is the breaking open of Frederick's store on Fourth street, last Saturday night. Six boys broke open the shop and carried out a lot of greceries, and ate up and otherwise disposed of a good deal of the stuff. Officer Wagner bas caught five of these, and has them in the twenty goese stolen within the last few days. It is thought that the police have at least a part of that gang. Out at the old brewery a party has quite a lot of fine chickens. A good many of them have been stolen.

On Saturday night Mayor Price's store was rebbed of a box of tobacco. Other cases occur every night, and still the perpetrators are at large. When caught is hard to prove anything on them, when proven they are sent up for va-riens terms, and so soon as they get out they are at their old trade again.

Several of these old veterans will arrive in Macon from the Dade county coal mines next week. Then we may expect some high old In addition to these outrages, emboldened by in addition to these outrings, embodded by success, the villians have adopted the plan of hiding in some dark alley and assaulting passers by. Dr. Metteaur was assaulted on a night or iwo ago. Honest men are obliged to arm themselves for protection. It is getting to be so common that those who do not go prepared are at a sad disadvantage.

Several gentlemen have remarked within the last few days that the streets are more the last few days that the streets are more dangerous than they have been for years.

Just outside the city the lesser ruffians get in their work. Last night in Fast Macon, about one hundred yards beyond the city limits, some ruffianly fellows placed a plank or two across the sidewilk in such a manner that George Wasner, a shop-hand in the Central shops, was thrown down and came near being seriously hurt. The miserable attempt at lighting that part of the city is in itself an encouragement of crime. The little dim electric lamps over there open and shut like the eyes of a drowsy goose, and just serve to render the darkness more intense. There seems to be no chance to get at the evildoers outside the city, and it even puts the po-lice to their trumps to catch an occasional evil doer inside the city. The good people of East Macon are talking of employing a private detective to watch that portion of the city, and eatch the perpetrators of all that deviltry. In case they are caught they may depend on being handled without mercy.

Yesterday a delivery wagon was stopped on the highway, by two burly negroes, and all the goods taken and carried off. Yesterday evening a negro woman was robbed of supplies she had just nurches delivery to the control of the control of

It is evident that a good deal of old fashioned vengeance is needed in this town, and the chickepit is meted out to the lawbreakers, the better.

HORRIBLE INHUMANITY.

Two Crippled Mules Perishing to Death by Macon, Ga., January 26.—[Special.]—Perhaps there was never a more horrible act of inhu-manity perpetrated than has occurred near Vineville on the Central railroad. Last Saturday night the up train on the Central road ran ever two mules in a cut near Vineville. One had a leg crushed and its body mangled badly. The first has hobbled around and gnawed sticks and stubble, but the other has been unable to get around even for that, and the two are just perishing to death out there with no merciful hand to put an end to their miserable lives. The owner an end to their miserable lives. The owner has not been near them, the railroad authorities have left them alone, and even the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals has been notified, and they have done nothing. The poor brutes remain there till yet, moaning in the intense agony of their sufferings, while hunger and thirst and cold are left to faith the scale of the graph wheels.

It was built but a short time ago to replace one which was destroyed about three months ago, and was one of the finest in the Red Bone neighborhead.

The dead body of one George Harper was found on the Loughborough plantation, in the northern part of Washington county, on the 11th instant. Harper was from Memphis, and had been employed on excellent at the Plantation. had been employed as engineer at the Plan-ters' Oil Mill, and had been discharged. His death was from a fractured skull, probably with a car pin. He was probably killed for the small sum of money which he may have had. Lem Smith, a well known planter in the Deer Creek neighborhood, last Thursday night was badly wounded by a shot from ambush, but it is thought that he is not dangerously hurt. He states that he started from his home to ride on horseback to Watsonia station, on the L., N. O. and T. road in Sherkey county, and was still traveling when night fell. He was in a thinly settled district, when two men suddenly appeared on the roadside and began shooting at him. Five shots were fired before he drew his own pistol and began shooting back. His assailants drew off when he opened on them and escaped. Mr. Smith was wounded in the left side but managed to stay on his horse until he reached a place where he received assistance.

It is reported that a new oil mill is to be started at Vicksburg, as an adjunct of which an improved paper mill will be built. A new process of making paper is to be used and a recent patent for making fine paper of cotton seed hulls will be introduced. The lint from the cotton seed has been utilized by paper makers for some time, but the hulls have here-tofore been used only as fuel. The new oil torre been used only as litel. The new oit mill will have a paper mill connected with it, and the material used for paper making will come from the oil mills. The new use for the hulls will make the mills an extraordinary good investment, and the solid business men of Vicksburg are much interested in the projected mills. Several of the most enterprising of these have been organizing a company, which is to begin constraints with a curvel of to begin operations with a capital of

TENNESSEE VALLEY.

A Land Overflowing With Plenty - The People.

CLAYTON, Ga., January 26.—[Special.]—Tennessee valley is noted for its magnificent beauty, its rich soil, and abundance of horses, mules and cattle. It is situated six miles north of this town, and is the garden spot of Rabun county. It lies on the head stream of the Tennessee river, is about six miles long, with width in proportion, and is surrounded by lofty hills on each side. They are a persevering people in everything in which they engage themselves. They make corn in abundant quantities, and as the soil is very fertile they can make all kinds of garden vegetables, and everything that can grow from the ground. They take great pride in keeping up their Sunday-schools supporting their ministers, and are very liberal to support any good cause. They have been carrying on a Sunday-school ever since 1880, nearly every Sunday, up to the present time. The valley is very densely settled—neighbors can stand in their doors and talk to their neighbors.

Other wells are to be dug and the city will undertake to furnish people with prime artesian water. The ten-inch well will be completed tonight.

Athens Watching the Work of the Engla-

ATHENS, Ga., January 26.—[Special.]—A reporter met ex-Governor McDaniel today, and asked him what he thought of the prospects of the Georgia, Carolina and Northern railroad.

"I think General Hoke means business," was the reply, "and the god will in all probability be built as designed. It is a splendid line, and will do a great deal for Athens and the country through which it passes."

"What route do you think it will take after leaving Athens?"
"I do not know. An airline will carry them

"What route do you think it will take after leaving Athens?"
"I do not know. An air line will carry them four miles above Monroe. I think, however, the best route, and I am exceedingly anxious it should traverse, is by High Shoals factory. Monroe, Logansville and on to Atlanta. It is seventy miles from Athens to Atlanta. It is route, and only a loss of four or five miles from an air line. It will lead through a magnificent country, touching an important manufacturing point, and the county site of Walton. From High Sheals to Monroe a natural road bed can be found, and then from Monroe to the Alcova an equally smooth route. I know every foot of the country, and this is the best and most natural route for the projected railroad, taking everything into consideration. It would then tap the Georgia road at or about Clarkston, or between Clarkston and Stone Mountain. The between Clarkston and Stone Mountain. The between Clarkston and Stone Mountain. The people along this line will nid the road materially, for they are able to subscribe and want the road badly. I believe, if I can see the officers of the read, that I can prevail on them to dopt this route."
The Macon and Athens road is now graded to within 14 miles of Madison, except a small strip of finishing up to do between Shady lale and Monticello. Only about three miles of the old Griffin and Madison readbed will be used, as the new survey leaves it to the left so as to come in below instead of it to the left so as to come in below instead of above Madison. The engineers are now encamped in Clarke county, opposite the residence of Captain Welsh, and are completing the survey and putting down the grading stakes as they go along. The line that they now survey will be the final one. A good crossing of the river was had, and a comparatively read youth completing in the tively good route was found, considering the topography of the country. It will probably be the middle of next week before the surveyors reach Athens.

AN EDITORIAL DREAMER.

He Amasses a Fortune, Loses it and Recoups on a Lunch Counter.

Although I am nearly forty years old, and ught to be above such foolishness, I sometime adulge in useless wishes. The other night I wen to my bunk at 9 o'clock, and instead of going to sleep I began to wish. I wished I had $500. With this I would speculate in grain and double my meney. Then I would invest in an easy and pro-itable business, and gradually rise to opulence. But after thinking awhile this way of growing rich was not satisfactory. I therefore (in my mind) sold out the small business and devoted my attention entirely to stock gambling. Fortune seemed to shower its blessings on me, and in less than a year I had realized over $500,000. I then retired from the stock exchange and resolved to live the life of the stock exchange and resolved to live the life of a gentleman. I purchased an acro of ground in a southern California town, built thereon a comfortable residence, and surrounded myself with every luxury. But I soon found that the interest on my capital was not sufficient to maintain me in the ease I desired, and I accordingly invested in a magnificent fruit farm near town, hoping to realize great profits. But in this I was mitaken for as I was invarentenced I was sysmistaken, for as I was inexperienced, I was sys tematically robbed by my agent and his employes. I therefore sold the farm at a sacrifice and went into merchandizing. In this I was more unsuccessful than in farming, for everybody I had around me filched from me. I got out of it as soon as possible, and determined to invest in a gold mine which was represented to me as very rich. For this I paid down all my eash except a thous and dollars, and mortgaged my house in town. Of course the gold mine proved worthless, and I was ruined. That is to say, almost ruined. I had a thousand dollars left. With seventy-five dollars of this I started a lunch counter, and slowly but surely realized another fortune. This fortune was not as large as the first, but it had been accumu-lated by honest industry and was therefore more le. I felt so com wishing and went to sleep.

THE SUPREME COURT.

DECISIONS RENDERED TUESDAY JANUARY 25, 1887.

Hon. Logan E. Bleckley, Ohief Justice, and Hons Samuel Hail and M. H. Blandford, Associate Justices-Reported for the Constitution by J. H. Lumpkin, S. O. Reporter.

Central Railroad vs. Logan & Co. Case, from Bibb, Railroads. Damages. Negligence. Evidence. Parties. Tender. (Before Judge Fort.)
Blandford, J.-1. Where a firm who shipped Bisniferd, J.—1. Where a firm who shipped salt over a railroad, to be delivered to a connecting road and thence carried to its destination, brought an action for damages against the connecting road for refusing to receive the salt loaded on board the cars of the first railroad, and required trans-shipment thereof, there was no error in permitting the plaintiffs to testify that they had sustained loss in their business by being compelled to sell the salt on hand at greatly reduced prices by reason of the conduct of the defendant. Under $2.719 (q), 719 (s) of the Code, upon a refusal to receive and transport goods brought over a connecting line, when such facilities are afforded to other connecting roads, or to the pations of other roads or of its own road, damages are presumed up to ten per cent of damages are presumed up to ten per cent of the value of the property, and, in order to in-crease the recovery for damages and expenses from ten per cent to the limit of twenty-five per cent fixed by the statute, all the elements of real or actual damages which are admissible of real or actual damages which are admissible in other actions may be shown.

2. Where suit was brought against a railroad company, which operated another railroad un-der lease, for a refusal to receive goods and transport them over the line so operated by it, there was no necessity to make the lessor a party defendant to the action; and there was no error as not perfected on the lessor company.

3. There was no error in charging that, if a railread company had not complied with the law, as prescribed in §719(s) of the Code, it was liable to the penalty prescribed in §719(q). - 74 Ga. 684. 4. Where a railroad company passed an order to the effect that, after that date, no shipment of salt or other merchaudise from Brunswick,in competition with Savannah, would be received competition with Savannah, would be received for local stations on its line or for passing over another road operated by it under lease, or for points beyond, unless charges were prepaid and shipments were delivered at the company's warehouse by drays as local business, and that local rates from that point would be assessed, if a firm who shipped salt from Brunswick by a road connecting with the first mentioned road, had tendered to it one or was considered. more car loads, and it was refused, and when forty-seven cars loaded with alt arrived, the agent of the road bringing them inquired of the agent of the other road whether the order above stated was still of force and operative, and was informed that it was still of force, there was no necessity for further tender of the ears to the refusing road before bringing suit for such refusal.

Stewart vs. Jaques. Complaint, from city court of Macon. Mortgage. (Before Judge Harris.)
[Jackson. C. J., did not preside in this case, on account of providential cause.]
Blandford, J.—A mortgage which described the property included therein as "one bay mare, two mare mules, one horse mule," did not safficiently specify the property, so as to put one who bona fide purchased from the mortgagor who bonn fide purchased from the mortgagor one black horse mule, nine years old, and one dark mare mule, four years old, on notice, by its record, that the mules mortgaged were the same as those purchased; especially where the mortgagor had several places on which he had mules. Code, §1955. Judgment reversed. Hill & Harris, for plaintiff in error. No appearance for defendant.

Rickerson vs. State. Murder, from Bibb.

New Trial. Practice in Superior Court.

Criminal Law. Charge of Court. Evidence.
(Before Judge Sintanons.)

Blandford, J.—1. Motion for new trial being made in term, and by an order, set down for hearing in vacation, and the brief of evidence being filed during the term, but not approved by the court: by the court:

by the court:

Held, that approval at the time of hearing the motion was sufficient, and the judge having then approved and ordered the brief to be filed, it could come up as a part of the record, though the clerk did not enter the filing after the approval, but left the evidence of filing to stand as entered on the brief during the term.

Where the attence and ing to show the 2. Where the evidence tending to show the corpus deliction a trial for murder, made a close case, and rested in part on whether a certain red stain in the sand was blood or not; and red stain in the sand was blood or not; and where a physician, who was a witness for the defendant, stated that he would not testify that anything was blood unless he had analyzed it and knew it to be blood, it was error tending to the injury of the defendant for the presiding judge to say to the witness that, if he should come down town and find a man lying on the sidewalk with his throat cut, and should find red spots on the pavement, would he not say that was blood.

3. It was error to refuse to charge that, if there was apparent conflict in the evidence, it was the duty of the jury to reconcile it, if they could, and not impute perjury to any Judgment reversed.

Judge Fain.)
Blandford, J.—1. Where a case involving the accounts of a guardian and the liabilities of two sets of sureties on his bonds, was referred to an auditor, who made a report disallowing certain credits claimed by the guardian in his returns for board of his wards, referring to such returns in the report, there was no error in admitting such returns, and considering them to explain the auditor's report, which otherwise would be doubtful of comprehension, although there were no exceptions to the re-port.

although there were no exceptions to the report.

2. Where a guardian was appointed and gave bond, and subsequently, upon the application of one of the sureties, was released and discharged, and the guardian was required to give a new surety, which he did, on a subsequent proceeding by bill in equity, on behalf of the wards, to recover from all the sureties for a degastavit of the guardian, the liability of the discharged surety and the second surety was not joint, but several, both being primarily liable to the wards, and as between themselves, not joint, but several, both being primarily lia-ble to the wards, and as between themselves, the last surety being first bound. Therefore, the decree should have been readered in fay a of the ward against the second surety for it is whole liability of the guardian, and against it is legal representative of the first surety (he being dead) for the liability—hich secrued while he was surety and before his discharge; and the rights and liabilities of the sureties between themselves was a matter to be settled subsequently between them. Judgment reversed in first case; affirmed in

THE New Jersey legislature has before it a bill, aimed at Pinkerton's detectives, which provides "that no person belonging to the organization commonly known as Pinkerton men or Pinkerton patrol, shall exercise in this state any power as a deputy sheriff, policeman, constable or peace officer; that no person not a bona fide resident or voter in this state for over two years, shall exercise any power as deputy sheriff, police man or peace officer in this state."

JUDGE PIKE, of Ohio, judge of a court of common pleas, declares the prohibition clause of the Dow law unconstitutional, and the village of "Waterville" has been enjoined from enforcing the law. The judge says that under the constitution of Ohio the legislature has no power to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors, and consequently cannot delegate such an authority to a town council. The judge also decides that the payment of a tax to carry on a lawful basiness creates a vested right. The decision of the common pleas court is not final.

COLONEL A. K. MCCLURE, of the Philadelphia Times, thinks that Cleveland will be his own successor, and says that his course as president has greatly strengthened him with the masses of the people. He says that the president is pursuing just the very course that the democratic organs and speak ers advocated and promised during the campaign, though they were then proba insincere in what they Colonel McClure thinks that Massachusetts. THE New York Graphic thinks that the salaries of the cabinet officers are inadequate compensation for the duties and the dignity of the position. They receive $8,000 per year, and in almost every instance it is necessary for a cabinet officer to rely on a private bank account to maintain creditably the social amenities of his office. Cabinet officers are generally men who abandon larger salaries than that allowed them to accept the position of honor and responsibility. The president's salary was increased from $25,000 to $50,000 during Grant's administration, and the Graphic thinks that the salary of the members of the cabinet should be increased from $8,000 to

THE bloodhound bugaboo with which the peop.e of the north so long taunted the people of the south, in charging brutal treatment of the slaves, has gone home to roost. A horrible relic of barbarism is now undergoing investigation by the legislature of Michigan. It is asserted that a regular trade in young girls between Milwaukee and Chicago and the mining regions of Michigan is being carried on. These unfortunate girls are inveigled to the mining regions and are held there in close confinement with no possible chance to escape. In several instances their attempts to flee has been thwarted by bloodhounds being put on their trail. In one instance a girl was shot, and took refoge in a swamp, where she was captured by dogs and human bloodhounds. Th story of this horrible and uncivilized treatment is almost too incredible for belief.

GENERAL WHEELER, of Alabama, has introduced a bill in the house to appropriate $100,000 for the boring of a hole in the earth. At first this appears as a very visionary undertaking, and seems scarcely less so when the object of the scientific statesman is known. This is explained by a Washington correspondent as follows : General Wheeler thinks an immense and very searching tore of this kind would give valuable re-ults to science: that if nothing else is acquired from the experiment, at least some valuable medicina waters will be obtained. He believes there is in the earth an antidote for every poison and every disease, and possibly all the waters necessary to cure the ills to which mankind is heir may be disovered in the several stratas to be perforated. He also holds that the Tertiary strata is where all gold formations are found. The gold taken from the gigantic convulsions of nature. Therefore the e ploration may discover a strata of gold that wou wheeler also has a theory that the earth gets colder as progress is made to the center, instead of being warner, according to the popular idea. This is making a very severe attack on the ancient the ology that anticipates at some time in the future

Shifting Commercial Centers.

Commerce moves the world. It is one of the greatest factors of civilization, and yet there is nothing more uncertain, nothing more fluctuating.

In our own country we have had several notable examples. A contemporary reminds us that not very long ago Newport was the formidable competitor of New York; today it is only one of our many summer resorts. Charleston once swayed the commerce of the south Atlantic and the gulf. Once there were cities on the gulf coast of Florida that ranked as commercial marts, but their names are almost forgotten.

The future will witness even greater changes. The signs of the times indicate a rapid and steady movement of population southward. Naturally this vast region cannot fill up without the building up of several large inland and seaboard cities. Where will they be established?

It will not do to count too much upon natural advantages. These may be overcome by brains, enterprise and capital. One thing, however, it worth considering. Men who bave studied the question predict that our great cities of the future will be inland because the domestic trade of a nation is always greater than its foreign trade. Taking this for granted, it is reasonable to assume that the centers of commerce and industry will be established at points where the climate is favorable, and where epidemics do not prevail. Of course these centers must have facilities for distribution. Hence the problem of railway transportation must necessarily continue to grow in importance. In the course of a very few years the future great city of the Piedmont or highland region of the south will begin to definitely shape itself, if, indeed, it has not already begun to do so. Perhaps it would not be a difficult matter, at the present moment, to point out on the map our coming metrop-

Revenue Reform.

The followers of Mr. Morrison have been urging that some action in the direction of reducing the surplus is absolutely necessary to the success of the democratic party in the next general election. They have insisted that some sort of record should be made by the party on this issue. The organs that stand for modified free-trade and the whisky ring have insisted not only that the Morrison scheme of tariff reform was the correct thing, but that it was a test of democracy. Consequently no epithet has been too foul to apply to Mr. Randall and other democrats who do not believe that Mr. Morrison's whims and tantrums ought to be formulated into law. The Courier-Journal has since admitted that the Morrison bill is not what it ought to have been-that it was put forward as a mere makeshift, indeed. And yet our esteemed contemporary has not hesitated to declare that this makeshift bill is a test of democracy. There are democrats who agree with the 'ourier-Journal, no doubt-who are so confirmed in their opinions that they will listen to no suggestions of compromise, and will vote for no bill that Mr. Morrison refuses to indorse. Meanwhile, the surplus is increasing, and the country appears to be as far away from revenue reform as ever. Why should democratic revenue reformers permit emselves to be swayed by the able whims and notions of the free-traders?

Recently, when the New York Star, which has heretofore been a very ardent follower of Mr. Morrison, insisted that something should be done to reduce the surplus, and urged the democratic leaders to agree on some compromise measure which would commend itself to the common sense of the country, the editor was promptly attacked by Mr. Morrison, who wrote him an arrogant and an intolerant letter, expressing surprise that he should turn out to be a traitor. The editor of the Star replied to Mr. Morrison's letter with some degree of independence, but it was plain that he was somewhat stunned by the suddenness of the attack, and the probability is that he doesn't know to this day whether he's a genuine "traitor" to Morrison or not.

But the editor of the Star was right. There should be a compromise. Democratic harmony is as important to the best interests of the country as revenue reform. Fortunately for all concerned, Mr. Randall has framed : compromise bill, and will make an effort to pass it. This bill reduces the revenue as follows: Tobacco tax, $28,000,000; free list of tariff, $4,000,000; reductions of tariff, $8,-000,000; fruit brandy, $1,500,000; removal of special liquor licenses, malt and spirituous, $4,700,000; alcohol in arts, $4,000,000; total about $52,000,000. It is stated that there is a big whisky lobby in Washington to defeat the fruit brandy reduction. The whisky lobby, however, is always on hand, and it will continue to be on hand until the internal revenue system is totally abolished.

Another Brandy and Water Speech Bismarck has made a second speech, this time before the Prussian chamber of deputies, in which he exceeded in violence his recent effort in the reichstag.

The cablegrams speak of the chancellor's address and the accompanying debate as the most stormy and riotons on record. The subject was the army bill, and Bismarck denounced its opponents as Herods, Pilates and enemies of the empire. As he proceeded he worked himself into a fury and filled the hall with bursts of sound. One significant thing came came out when he thundered "Executive power rests with monarchs

The leaders of the opposition listened to the bitter and wild talk of the speaker in stupified amazement. |Finally one of th deputies shouted: "The chancellor is so identified with the empire that he confounds the empire with himself, but the only danger to the crown is the chancellor!

It will be recollected that Bismarch primed himself with nine glasses of brandy and water for his reichstag speech. The tone of his talk to the deputies would indicate that he was even more strongly braced up than usual, but the fact cannot be dewied that his words do not lack power to b.ck them up. The emperor can dissolve the feichstag whenever he pleases, but the reichstag cannot dissolve the emperor. So, while the game may be tedious, the chan cellor and his imperial master stand an excellent chance to win.

THE CONSTITUTION regrets to learn of the ourning of the office of the Darien Gazette, The Gazette was established in 1874, and since then it has been burned out three times. The last fire was not as serious as it might have been, but it was serious enough to do considerable damage, and the Gazette, one of the liveliest and brightest of our exchanges, cannot be started again until the insurance adjuster has examined the wreck.

The three fires have not as yet convinced Editor Grubb that the Gazette is doomed to perish in the flames, and the paper will beperish in the flames, and the paper will ssned again in a few days. This shows that there is considerable pluck in the neighborhood of Darien.

An International Incident. Our Chicago dispatches have a ridiculous story to unfold. It seems that, at the annual meeting of the Union League club, Mr. Cragin, representing the committee on political action, proposed the name of the Hon. William E. Under ordinary circumstances the incident would have no significance, but at a time when our relations with England are not entirely cordial, it is feared by some that the incident will be construed into an insult to the mother country. We do not believe that Mr. Cragin's sudden break will change the complexion of affairs in the least. Even when seriously considered it must be recollected that Mr. Gladstone, so far from representing the British government, leads the opposition, and his exclusion from honorary membership in the club will be rather gratifying than otherwise to the tory administration and its supporters. On the other hand, the mere suggestion of his name in an unauthorized and irregular way cannot commit the club or the American people.

The whole business is not worth discussing, but it will doubtless be viewed and reviewed from every possible standpoint. Whatever differences of opinion may exist as to minor points, there can be no doubt that in any American club, whose rules make him eligible. Mr. Gladstone would be

THE Washington correspondent of the New York Herald publishes a lengthy article going to show that the essential principle of the telephone is public property, and has been since May, 1885, as much so as any principle covered by an ancient or expired patent. The correspondent states that in 1868 Royal F House, of Bridgeport, Conn., invented and patented "an electro-phonetic telegraph," which was the same in principle as the telephone of this day. The House patent having expired by limitation the principle belongs to public. When the sewing machine pat ents expired several years ago, the public without regret saw the price of machines drop, and there will be no howl if the price of telephones should tumble in the same direction.

WILL Mr. Morrison compromise?

An exceedingly sad story comes from Massa husetts. Persis Haskell, a pretty girl, eloped with a young man and there was a mock marriage. The ceremony was performed by a friend of the groom, who pretended to be a minister, but who in fact was not. In a week the poor girl was deserted. She drifted about from place to place as a domestic and at last was arrested for stealing a small piece of sheeting. It developed on the trial that the sheeting was to be used in the very scanty wardrobe of a little baby. Then the court suspended the sentence of the deserted girl, and her relatives hearing of her whereabouts took charge of her.

It is a well known fact that Edwin Booth never appears on the stage in Washington City. When his brother killed President Lincoln Mr. Booth resolved never to play again in the national capital. He has steadfastly held to his resolve. Last week Mr. Booth was in Baltimore and a theatrical manager went over from Washington to see him, carrying letters from many of the most prominent people of Washington asking the tragedian to favor them with a week's engagement. In addition to these flattering requests there was a substantial backing to the manager's invitation in the shape of a guarantee of $20,000 for the week's engagement. Mr. Booth was inflexible. He thanked the manager, but declined to depart from his resolve.

ECHOES OF THE PEOPLE. Rich Men for Law Makers.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: In your number of January 14, there is an editoria headed: "Isit a Decline or an Advance?" in which the writer advances views that are, unfortunately not confined to him. It was wrong to let such view not confined to him. It was wrong to let such views pass unchallenged when they appear in a paper of the circulation and influence that yours enjoys. I quote a few extracts from the article: "The Albany Argus laments the decadence of the senate. Such senators as Clay, Calboun, Webster, etc., are no longer to be found in our upper house." "Now we fill the senate with millionaires and railroad attorneys intent only upon guarding corporate interests."

The writer in The Constitution calls this gloomy view of the situation and goes on to We live in a different age and our legisl in the main devoted to matters of business out strange that this should have the traying business men into politics and rawing business men into polities, and it is no transee that what is called a man's money sense build be made the test of his business ability." This justification of the presence of business mer a politics is sophistical and fallacious, and ever gesis the very danger that the Argus point mely: that it may be that but may b n go into p interested. intshell, is about this: The times require legislation on business matters. The public seek men most fit to legislate on thes bjects.

Business success is a fair test of business ability Therefore the public choose rich men to make

Therefore the public choose rien men to make heir laws.

This, he thinks, is just as it should be. I will endeavor to bring so much of the public as reads his, to a different conclusion. Let us look at each of the above propositions, one at a time.

1. The times require legislation on business matters. Was there ever a time when legislation did not intimately concern matters of business? Then the experience of the past is worth a great deal in determining who are the best law makers.

Enasted laws are declarations of rights and of the modes sanctioned by the government of enforcing them. Business men are no more concerned in having their rights than the rest of humaniights to se looked after, and is to sale be these to the moneyed class, who often have power ul temptations to disregard them? If business nen were bent on having superior privileges, that political influence, but it would be a good reason why the people should not give it to them.

2. The public seek men most fit to legislate on these subjects. Are business men most capable to make laws on business matters? In truth, they are, on these subjects the least capable. No man understands his own rights as well as another who is disinterested and of equal intelligence. Our law wisely forbids any judge, though a perfect planoforte (grand square and upright, from sitting in a case which may be (according as it is turned out,) costly or economicoording as it is turned out,) costly or economic.

I. The same common sense declares that it were titer, if possible, to have disinterested legislators with the properties of the declares that business meaning in the declare to the declare the declarests, if elected to, a legislative body better, if possible, to have disinterested legislators, Now it will frequently happen that business men of large interests, if elected to a legislative body, will be called upon to make laws on what intimately concerns their own dollars and cents. And everybody knows:

"When self the wavering balance shakes

"The rarely right adjusted."

Even if unwarranted, in such cases, there is in the public mind a suspicion of bias, which is an item of itself. The conclusion is irresistible that, on business matters, business men are the worst law-makers that could be chosen.

Your writer further says: "These men may lack the culture of professional statesmen, but they do good work on their committees and vote on the right side." Now, your writer, and every man of reasonable intelligence, in matters of business would rather trust an experienced business man. On the same principle law-making should rather be entrusted to those who have made it the special study of their lives, provided they are honest and not too much used up by abstractions. The comprehensive understanding of law is no easy acquirement, and does not come by intuition to the successful business man any more than to any one else.

3. Business success is a fair test of business ability. It may be, but what has that to do with legislative ability does not claim to be omniscient. Business shillity does not claim to be omniscient. Business shillity does not ceam of the prove law-

ity. It may be, but what has that to do with legislative ability? A successful man of business and and does not claim to be omniscient. Business ability does not even argue, much less prove law-making ability.

4. It does not follow that the public choose rich men because their legislative ability is proven (or even intimated) by their business success, unless the public is guilty of the same fallacy as your writer. He, unconsciously perhaps, substitutes the single word "ability" for the expression "business ability," and thus arrives at his remarkable concusion. He evades the grounds of the Argus's lament. That paper seems to think there is danger (sometimes realized) that business men will import their commerctal methods into politics, and try to make a success of legislation from a business stempont.

import their commercial methods into politics, and try to make a success of legislation from a business standpoint.

Your writer says in effect, though perhaps he tild not mean to, that, had we in our midst today a Clay, a Calhoun or a Webster, he should step aside and make way for the money king, who need have no other recommendation than his comfortable bank account.

Your writer further says that in this business age people cannot understand how a man of tremendous abilities can remain poor. But whether he or the people understand it or not, such nevertheless is often the case, and is easily explained in the fact that many men are great enough to have higher ambitions than the self-gratification of amassing a fortune. Give them a bare subsistence and they have as little use for money as your writer has for a man without money. So true is this that "our successful literary men" would resent as an insult the imputation that they "adopt commercial methods." Can it be that your writer, under cover of praising the times, has said of them the hardest thing possible?

If anything I have said seems to reflect in the slightest degree on business menor their honorable pursuits, I emphatically disclaim any such intention. Their methods and successes in the main are most praiseworthy. It is no mean compliment to be called a "ousiness-likes" man. J merely protest against the position of omniscience to which your writer would elevet them.

An article is now going the rounds of the press relating to war experiences and speaking of the conscre condition of confederate troops, the rawhide shoe, made from the skin freshly taken from the animal, is mentioned. As every one knows who is ever had shins knock; d black and blue by runn oak roots, the newly cleared land is full of snags and pieces of sharp-edged bark, and then the sand gets awful hot in summer. The pioneer could not stand the weight of cowhide shoes or hard brogans, and he cast about for a convenient substitute. He hit apon a fine expedient at last. He took his rifle and went into the woods and shot a brace of large for quirrels. Arriving at home he skinned them by simply ripping the hams and pulling the skin of over the head of the animal. The flesh made ex-cellent stew, and while his wife was preparing that he drew the skin over his foot, and by a little trim-ming and a stitch or two of buckskin, he had a pair of moccasins that were durable, elastic and as soft s gid. A gentlemen now living in this city, whose locks are whitened by the snows of many winters, was telling me the other day of how he used to see English "cannel" coal dumped out of the ships, as ballast, on the wharves in Savannah. It was not thought much of in that day and time, and very few people would pay the nominal price asked for it to use it in their houses. The next day I picked up a paper and read how an English syndicate had purchased a large tract of land up on the Ohio river, so as to mine cannel coal in Kentucky. They propose coal Atlantic ocean to supply the great London gas companies, and will obtain about eighteen dollars per ton for this same cannel coal. From the New York Sun We reprint from THE ATLANTA CONSTITUrion, issued today, an instructive letter written to that journal from Birmingham. Alabama, and treat that journal from Birmingham, Alabama, and tresiing with clearness and intelligence the great subject of the iron industries of the south. It reveals an extraordinary state of things, familiar enough, perhaps, to those who are specially interested in the subject, but to the general public almost wholly unknown. That the southern furnaces should be able to manufacture iron in comparatively unlimited quantities at an advantage over the north of naless than five dollars a ton is a fact of wide-reaching significance.

Its importance in its present application is dis-closed in the letter in question, which sheds agreet deal of light upon that new south of which Mr. Henry W. Grady so effectively discourses, whose victories of industry and commerce are tobe her retaliation for the defeats of the past. It illustrates also the probable truth of a scatement to which we listened of a scatement to which we listened recently with some apprehensions of its author's sanity. A New York merchant, he alleged, two of three years since invested, upon the energetic pressure of a southern friend, and with no little reluctance, the sum of eighteen thousand dollars in one of the iron and coal ventures of this sand Birmingham. On promise of employment, Minnie, whose husband had deserted her in whose induced to go to a camp near Menominee by a cheap restaurant-keeper ramed William Gaines, No. 111 Halstead street, Chicago. Not until her arrival in the lumber region did she realize the life she was to lead and then the lack of funds prevented her return. By force she was compelled to do the bidding of the fiends who kept the hell in which she was confined. Kicks and beatings were frequent; the shanty in which they were penned was surrounded by high palisades, and thirteen bloodhounds further prevented escape. All at-tempts to communicate with the outer world were frustrated. Once the attention of the authorities was attracted and a deputy sheriff called to investi-gate. He was given $50 and left. The girl's story has been verified by the superintendent of the house of correction after a careful investigation. What is published is but a hint of the life led in these dens of infamy, the details being too revolting for publication.

SEVEN CARS GO OFF A BRIDGE. A Freight Train Meets With a Serious Ac-

Seven freight cars were wrecked by an axle under one of them breaking near Silver creek on the East Tennessee road, a few miles south of Rome, yesterday morning. No one was killed.

The train was moving north and as, it approached Silver creek was running at a good speed. The creek is not a large one but the bridge is quite high, at least twenty feet above the water at is highest point. It is about forty to fifty feet long and is approached by quite a grade from both sides. The grades are steep enough to make the pull from the bridge quite hard, and trains usually glide down one grade at a d pace, cross the bridge without pulling up and in this way make the ascent from the bridge easier than if the bridge was crossed at a slower pace. The freight train rattled down the grade vesterday at a moderate speed and struck the bridge without slacking up. The engine rolled across and the tender and some ears followed. Suddenly, the engineer felt the steam upon his engine increase and looking back saw that his train had broken in to, and that several of the carshad dropped over and were piled upon each other near the end of the treatle, while the rear end of the train the treatle, while the rear end of the train was yet upon the bridge. The engine was stopped and all hands gathered about the bridge. A glance was enough to show them that an axle had broken under one of the cars as it was crossing the bridge, causing seven cars to jump the track. Fortunately no one was on that portion of the train which went over. The accident deranged the entire schedule of the read for the bridge of the day. The passanread for the balance of the day. The passenger train being unable to pass over, a transfer was made. The road was repaired during the day, and the morning trains are all right.

It fell to my lot to be the prisoner's pastor in his prison life, and as one of those who were left in doubt as to the justice of his sentence, I found my position one of indescribable perplexity and sad hers. I sought honestly to probe his heart and bring out his bloody secret if it was there. In that constant counsel of others. If my methods were not wise, they were at least approved by men whose judgment and wisdom! have learned to trust in other things. The prisoner's family while protesting their belief in his innocence, supported me thoroughly in my endeavor to lead him to an open confession of any connection that he might have with the nunder.

But he was steadfast and inflexible in the avowal of his it nocence. He stood like a fortress, and neither warning, entreaty, nor the dread sight of the gallows, nor the open gateway of eternity, could drive him to a confession. The original believers in his guilt maintained at first that it was the hope of escape from his doom which sealed his lips, and confidently predicted that with the death of his carthly hope would come the confession of his guilt. Hope died, but the confession never came. They were willing to stake their faith in his guilt upon the inevitable certainty of his confession at the last; but when he died proclaiming his innocence they found in his refusal to verify their predections the proof of his monatrous heartlessness and wickedness.

For my part, I did not know. My mind was poised in doubt, and so my lips were silent. If he died a guilty man, how guilty he was! If not guilty, then what a pity that such a bright young life should have been quenched in the blackness of shame! Those who doubt must wait. Perhaps their waiting will not be long; but possibly they will not know until they stand in the presence of

OUR BREAD IN DANGER.

The Alarming Increase in Baking Powder Adulterations.

Among recent important discoveries by the food analysts is that by Prof. MOTT, U. S. Government Chemist, of large amounts of lime and alum in the cheap baking powders. It is a startling fact that of over one hundred different brands of baking powder so far analyzed, comprising all those sold in this vicinity, not one, with the single exception of Royal Baking Powder was found free from both lime and alum.

Alum is used as a substitute for cream of tartar to produce a cheap baking powder. It costs less than two cents a pound, whereas pure cream of tartar costs forty. Its effect upon the system has been ascertained to be poisonous, and overdoses have been attended with fatal results. Lime is the most useless adulterant yet found in baking powders. It is true that when subjected to heat it gives off a certain amount of carbonic acid gas, but a quicklime is left, one of the most powerful caustics known.

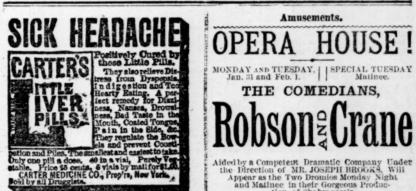

The effect of lime upon the delicate membranes of the stomach, intestines and kidneys, more particularly of infants and children, and especially when taken into the system day after day, and with almost every meal, is pernicious in the extreme. It is said by physicians to be one of the chief causes of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the kidneys. Chemists have found 12 per cent., or one-eighth of the weight, of some of the baking powders prominently sold in this vicinity, to be lime. The wickedness of this adulteration is apparent.

The absolute purity and wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder-now affirmed by every chemist and food analyst of prominence, and conceded by all manufacturers of other brands-arises from the exclusive use of cream of tartar which is specially refined by patent processes that totally remove the lime and all other impurities. - These facilities are possessed 1,99000.... by no other manufacturer.

Dr. W. G. TUCKER, Professor of Chemistry in the Albany, N. Y., Medical College, whose analytical work in connection with investigations of the food adulterations in the State of New York has been extensive and thorough, says of the Royal Baking Powder:

"The cream of tartar employed in its manufacture is free from the lime which is a constituent of the improperly refined cream of tartar of the market used by manufacturers of other baking powders, and of most of the substitutes therefor which enter into the composition of many powders, and in this important respect, as well as in its general purity and wholesomeness, the Royal Baking Powder is superior to any other powder which I have examined. The constituents are so proportioned as to secure the best results and yield a baking powder unequalled for purity, strength and wholesomeness."

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, January 26.—The stock market showed little of the animation of the previous two days and dealings for the most part were again confined to room traders and professionals. The events of the day would seem to indicate that the bears are much more active than for some time past, and while a majority of the operators are once more awaiting the outcome of the interstate commerce bill their operations meet with little opposi tion. The European situation had no effect upon values, though some buying for London account gave the market a firm appearance early in the day. At the same time there was little or no news received to affect values, though Union Pacific was received to affect values, though Union Pacific was raided in the morning upon rumors of a heavy falling off in the earnings for December with an increase in operating expenses, and coal stocks were adversely affected by the story of a threatened strike on Jersey Central. New England was again a conspicuous feature. Trading in Reading showed a marked falling off, and that stock was weak with remainder of the list. Sterling exchange rates suffered a small reduction in consequence of the cesfered a small reduction in consequence of the ces sation of sales of stock for European account Dealings were marked by considerable feverish-ness and irregularity, and the short interest is thought to have been somewhat increased. There was a firm opening, first prices being generally from 1/4 to 1/4 per cent above last evening's final fig ures. Further slight advances were reached in the early trading, but the list soon gave way under the hammering of the bears and the withdrawa of European purchases, Union Pacific and Mi-sour Precific being the heaviest sufferers. The market rallied late in the first hour and shortly after 11 many stocks were at the highest for the day. Prices again yielded although trading was devoid of in terest. In the afternoon there was more activity and the decline gathered force, though these was a fractional rally to ward 2 p. m. The downward movement was again renewed in the last hour, the lowest prices being recorded at or near the close, which was dult and weak and showed the active list to be almost invariably lower. Total business for the day 280,000 shares.

MANCHESTER, January 26.-The Guardian, in its financial article, says: The tone of the market is not lively, few sellers have made an average progress. Rumors of war have influenced buyers to exercise caution, especially those who have been experting yarn to the continent. Inquiry for India has improved. China merchants are doing rather less in shirtings for shipment, but some business in finishing cloths has been done, though business in finishing cloths has been done, though often at low prices. Producers do not manifest any anxiety to sell despite political disquitude. These whose production is well sold are indifferent to the slackness of the demand. Much surprise is expressed at the comparative strength of cotton. In view of the large receipts at the American ports, abundant stocks at Liverpool, spinners full reserves, large exports from the United States and themory of war exports are in difficillations. remors of war, export yarns are in little inquiry, China merchants make lew bids, which are rarely accepted. The present wants of India buyers are well satisfied. The continental demand is stagnant, though the merchants are taking delivery freely towards previous contracts. The home man-ufacturers are not disposed to purchase in large quantities. The cloth sections are inactive.

NEW YORK, January 26—C. L. Green & Co., in their report on cotton fatures today, say: Nothing really new has come to the surface today, and like two or three markets immediately preceding, there was a filmer start on comparatively light receipts, and some three points gained, but when later actual figures showed several points at the south recording a full supply all early buyers sold out, and the close was dull at about last evening's figures. Business was confined almost entirely to local ures. Business was confined almost entirely to local operators, and as a rule there seemed to be an inclination to stand off and await the issue of February

THE SITE SELECTED.

THE PETERS PARK PROPERTY UNANIMOUSLY CHOSEN.

Colonel Forter Arrives and the Commission no Longer Wai's-Valuable Improvements to be Made in the Vicinity of the School-Advantages Considered by the Commissioners.

Pending the arrival of Colonel Porter yester day, the Technological School commission, in accordance with the programme mapped out the day before, took no action toward the selection of a site.

Mr. Porter was kept at home by illness in his family and by an accident to the machinery in his mill.

The commissioners already assembled hesitated to make the important decision without having their judgment reinforced by a fuller vote. They, therefore, telegraphed Commissioner Porter, Chairman Harris being ill in Macon, and insisted upon his coming.

At one o'clock he arrived from Covington and with four of the five members present the commission went to work. Mr. Porter had been in Atlanta a great deal Mr. Porter had been in Atlanta a great deal lately and was perfectly familiar with the sites under consideration, having visited the Boulevard site with Colonel Inman, the Grant park site with Colonel Grant, and examined them all critically with an eye to their fitness for the school purposes. The communications sent in to the commission from the friends of the respective sites were read to him and full information furnished him concerning the advantages urged in their favor and the relative advantages which they were claimed to la-

A UNANIMOUS VOTE. After he had digested these details, the commission entered into a discussion of the question of location, and finally by a unanimous vote agreed upon the Peters park site.

The resolution choosing this location contain-

The resolution choosing this location contained another clause by which the executive committee, consisting of Messrs Inman, Porter and Heard, were instructed to examine the lot, decide upon the amount of land necessary, the extent of its frontage on North avenue, and its depth and shape; and arrange other necessary details connected with the ground.

sary details connected with the ground.

Four acres of the property have been donated to the enterprise, by Mr. Richard Peters, with the forther understanding that all the additional land required, should be furnished by him at two thousand dollars per acre. It is estimated that about four or five acres more, or from eight to nine in all, will be required to accommodate the school.

There is now nothing to delay the swift construction of the buildings the placing of the struction of the buildings, the placing of the machinery and other equipments and the early opening of the institute. THE SCHOOL WILL OPEN.

THE SCHOOL WILL OPEN.

It is hoped that the school will be ready for the reception of students by January next. It is at least safe to say that everything will be in working order by the following September

The fund consists of the state's appropriation of $65,000, the city's of $50,000 and the $20,000 donated by citizens; making a teta of $135,000, in addition to an annuity of $25,000 with which the school has been endowed by the city, and which it is to enjoy for a term of twenty years. Of this fund it is understood that $50,000 will be expended in buildings and the remaining $55,000 in grounds, machinery, equipments, apparatus and maintenance.

As soon as the committee appointed for the As soon as the committee appointed for the purpose have marked off the exact ground to be occupied by the institute, the commission will have the deed to the property examined by the attorney-general and upon his return of a favorable report they will consummate the purchase. The next business before the commission will probably be the election of an architect who will perfect the plans for the building under the approval of the commission. Advertising for bids will then be in order and finally the laying of the foundations and the erection of laying of the foundations and the erection of the main building, the wood and iron work-shops and forge and the chemical laboratory. The school will likely be contained in these three buildings.

The advertisements for bids will probably appear as early as the middle of March, and by the middle of April or the first of May the building may be expected to begin. The houses will be built of brick and stone.

The commission will give very close atten-ion to the selection of first-class machinery and equipments for the school, and their most institute with the best talent and learning of the land. It is not known how many profess-ors will be required, but there are said to have been quite a number of applications made for positions as instructors in the future establishment already.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD. The ground selected today by the commission has about 500 feet frontage on North avenue, and runs back along Cherry street for probabily 700 feet. There it abuts on a street which satisfactory assurances have been give on the west side there is also to be a street laid

The property is about four hundred yards from the baseball park, two blocks from Marietta street, and four from Peachtree. Mr. Peters has engaged to build a street car track long North avenue, connecting the Peachtree and Marietta street lines, which will be laid of heavy iron, so that cars may be run in from the Western and Atlantic railroad to the iastitute. Street cars will run on this line both from the Peachtree and Marietta tracks. The street will at an early day be paved and the laying of the curbing for sidewalks will begin immediately.

In spite of the rumors which have gone out it has been ascertained that the ground chosen is several hundred feet higher than the university at Athens, from which institution com plaints have never come concerning the health of the students, and the commissioners in making their selection were probably aware of this fact. The institute will be nearly appreached by two of the best paved belgian block avenues of the city, and it has many other advantages over the other sites, some of which have already been alluded to in these which have already been alluded to in these columns.

Upon comparison of offers the Peters park site is said to have been found by the commission the cheapest of the three, considering the number of acres. It is rumored that the donors of the $20,000 made up by citizens, most of them approve yesterday's selection, and probably the immediate proximity to the business part of the city, which will render the school useful from the start may have had its weight in the arrival at a choice.

The commissioners have given the question of location very close and earnest study, and probably succeeded in selecting the very best site on the market. A prominent gentleman who has examined all three last night stated that the commissioners could not have done a more sensible thing, and that their choice columns.

THE CAPITOL COMMISSION Meets and Inspects the Work-The Cost to Date. The capitol commissioners met yesterday

The capitol commissioners met yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at the capitol grounds.

General E. P. Alexander was the only member of the commission not present.

Two hours and a half were consumed in an elaborate inspection of the building, materials, walls and work, in company with the superintendent and the supervising architect.

The commission then adjourned to the governor's office, where they had their regular monthly meeting.

After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and approved, Supervising Architect Edbrooke submitted his monthly estimates.

Mr. Edbrooke's report showed that the amount due the contractors was $10,518,98.

The commission approved the estimates and

The commission approved the estimates and ordered the amount due the contractors to be paid. They next considered the advisability of altering the character and materials of the parapet walls.

The design has been to build these walls at the top of the house of brick with finishing of galvanized iron; but it was feared that the iron would be constantly expanding and con-tracting under the action of the weather, thereby rendering necessary frequent and ex-pensive applications of fresh paint.

After some discussion, the architect was instructed to prepare plans for the construction of the parapet in cut stone and submit them to the contractors in time for them to be able to lay before the board at its next monthly meeting an estimate of the cost of the proposed hange. The commission passed a resolution approving of the action of the superintendent in reject-ing certain patched stone materials not cut in accordance with the requirements of the spec-ifications, and instructing the secretary to notify the contractors to that effect. The on then adjourned till Friday, the 21th of February.

From the showing made yesterday by the rchitect's report it appears that up to date ninety thousand cubic test of colitic lime stone have been used, being about 425 car loads. The brick work has consumed seven million nine hundred thousand bricks, or 1,320 car

Seven hundred and forty-eight thousand pounds of wrought iron floor beams; pounds of wrought iron floor beams; 130,000 pounds wrought iron girders and nearly 600,000 pounds of east iron columns have been put into the building. In all, the work has eaten up 1,572,000 pounds of iron.

The cost of the entire business to date has been $422,712,48, of which ten per cent require in the state treasury as guarantee; and mains in the state treasury as a guarantee, and will not be paid out to the contractors until the completion of the work. Of the above amount, $395,000 represents the amount ex-pended in work and materials already used. The remaining $28,000 is for the great masses of accepted materials lying upon the grounds and waiting to be worked up into the building. The members of the commission who lived at a distance all returned to their homes last night

Ladies of Atlanta, Read.

The first of February is upon us, and hunreds of housewives in Atlanta will lay in a ful supply of groceries for the month, and pay cash. Now, where shall I got! If you let me answer, unquestionably I say, go to Thorn. Hundreds also deal on credit just to save a little trouble, pay exhorbitant prices for identically the same goods, and at the end of the month settle up, and are just twenty per cent losers just because they do not investigate Thorn's prices. Now, my dear people, just stop and think how much money you can save your poor husband, who is tolling day in and outloean a competency, and perhaps lay by the foundation of a fortune: by paying a little attention to the buying, seeking those who offer you the best inducements, you will at the end of the year have saved more than you would judge of. Say your grocery bill is $48.00 per year, by coing to Thorn upply of groceries for the month, and pay cash. buying, seeking those who once you have ducements, you will at the end of the year have saved more than you would judge of. Say your grocery bill is $48.00 per year, by going to Thorn you will get identically the same goods for $375.00—enough saved you see to buy spring bonnets, shoes for the children and such like. Economy is wealth, and the sooner you make up your mind to patronize Thorn, the better for you and yours. Just think, 72 bars soap for $1.00. Now is that not a nice saving? You can get 6 for 25 cents I keep the best goods in the market, buy more and sell out quicker than any house in the city. Can supply anything you desire and will save you 20 per cent. If you are wise you will have read this to profit. Those in the city who have not my price list I will furnish one upon application, and those out of the city send a 1 cent stamp and address and I will forward one. Be sure and call and save money. The men were Henry Folsom and Lewis

The two negroes were arrested early yester-day morning by Captain Moon and Detective Bedford, about six miles west of the city. They have both been fiving in Fulton county for six or seven weeks, and would in all probability never have been detected, but for an

Two or three years ago the body of a negro bog was found in a grove near Jackson, Miss. The boy's throat was cut from ear to ear, and a bloody knife was found near by. The murder, for such it evidently was, created an in-tense excitement among the negroes, and strenuous efforts were made to ascertain by whom the murder was done. Foremost among those who were trying to hunt the murderer down was Henry Folsom, a well known negro. Folsom pushed the search in such a manner roisom pushed the search in such a manner that suspicion finally fell upon him, and he was arrested. Immediately after the negro's arrest, evidence against him began to accumulate, and when he was arraigned for trial a conviction was the result. The evidence was nearly all circumstantial, and instead of being hung Folsom was sent to the penitentiary for life.

Soon after Folsom was placed in the gang Lewis Scarcy was added to it. Scarcy was sent up for a life-time, too. Some time previous to the date of his appearance in the penitentiary, he shot his wife through the head, causing instant death, because she was walking with another negro. The evidence against him was direct and he was sentenced to hang, but the governor of the state, in compliance with petitions, commuted his sentence to life imprisonment.

The two murderers found themselves in the

The two murderers found themselves in the ame squad in the pepitentiary and soon became fast friends. Neither one was satisfied with his berth, and both decided to escape. They were heavily ironed, but with a file which they secured in some way unknown they released themselves of the irons, and just before Christmas made, their geome. A few before Christmas made their escape. A few days after their escape they came to Atlanta and securing work from Mr. Trimble, six miles from Atlanta, went out to his place.

Some days after the two negroes escaped an officer found on the streets an envelope on which was written the name of Folsom's wife. The letter was postmarked Atlanta and formed the elew which resulted in the arrest of the men Thinking that the envelope had contained a letter from Folsom the officer who picked it up began work, and in a short time became satisfied that the two escapes were in Atlanta. He at once opened a correspondence with Chief Connolly, sending in the first letter a description of the two men and an offer of a reward of $59 for the capture of each. The chief placed the matter in the hands of Captain Moon and De-tective Bedford, who finally succeeded in lotective Bedford, who finally succeeded in locating the mrn, with the assistance of the chief. After the men had been located the Mississippi officer was notified and day before yesterday he reached the city. That night about midnight Captain Moon, Detective Bedford and the Mississippi officer started for Mr. Trimble's residence, and about day light arrested beth negroes while they were in bed salesn. were in bed asleep.

That night he informed an-other negro, who slept in the same building, that he would call him about three o'clock in the morning, to start some work. The darky did not suspect the part he was playing in the arrest of his friends, and when a knock sounded upon his door he sprang up and opened it, letting the officers in. The two murderers were still asleep when the officers grabbed them. They wanted to fight, but were so completely overpowered that they could not resist successfully. Captain Moon reached the city early in the morning with his prisoners.

A Sudden Death.

George W. Sims, a young negro, died very suddenly yesterday afternoon at his home on Hilliard street. Sims had been working in the Georgia railroad yard a long time, and was considered one of the stoutest and strongest men in the service. Day before yesterday Sims was taken sick while at work and went home. All that night he complained of severe pains in his head, and yesterday morning awoke with a high fever. Later in the day he appeared to improve, and ate a hearty dinner. During the afternoon, however, the pains returned, driving sims almost crazy. A physician was sent for and Dr. Williams responded, but Sims died soon after the physician arrived. His death is after the physician arrived. His death is thought to have been due to a congestion of the brain, brought on by a strain.

Nothing will excite the admiration of the public quicker than an easy, graceful speaker, and the most fluent speakers, as a general thing, are men who were trained to it when young. Mr. John M. Miller, at 31 Marietta street, has just received from the National school of oratory, at Philadelphia, a stock of books which are indispensable to those who wish to become clear and graceful speakers. We give below a partial list of books that can be found at his store: "Practical Elocution," "Oradory," by Henry Ward Beecher; "Young Folks' Dialogues," "Little People's Speaker," "Young Folks' Entertainments," choice humor, "Reading as a Fine Art;" the elocutionist's annual, "How to Become a Public Speaker" and "Choice Dialogues." crushed on the East Tennessee road yesterday that amputation will be performed this morning.

Beck ham lost his arm through his own carelessness. A few days ago the bootblack became convinced that he could do better in Florida than in Atlanta, and yesterday morning started to emigrate to the land of oranges. Beckham was not well supplied with money, and not being able to secure a pass, decided to beat the road out of a ride. Early yesterday morning he secured a position on the brake bar under a freight car, and started on his trip. About forty miles south of Atlanta he lost his place on the bar and dropped off. Hi'arm fell under the wheels and was ground to pieces up to the shoulder The train men discovered the boy and picked him up, carried him on until the north bound passenger train was met. The boy was transferred to the passenger train and reached the city about two o'clock this morning. He was then taken to the Ivy street hospital, where Dr. Nicolson examined his injuries. The doctor found the arm so badly crushed that amputation will be necessary to save life. The arm will be taken off at the shoulder this morning.

A Fine Performance at DeGive's Opera

House Last Night.

The play of "Leonora," written by Charlotte Birchpfeiffer, the authoress of Maggie Mitchell's great play, "Fanchon," deals with life in the Black Forest and may properly be called a comedy drams. It is not particularly strong, either in plot or construction, and the action drags at times. But Madame Janish made the most of the captivating row of "Lorle," and won new admirers as the simple peasant girl. "Lorle" falls in love with "Reinhardt," a painter, and they marry. He is elevated to; a high position at court and, in the course of events, becomes ashamed of his country. course of events, becomes ashamed of his country born wife who, in the third act, entertains the prince with a discription of her childheod, to the mortification of her husband and the delighted as-tonishment of the prince, who is charmed with such naivete. "Reinhardt" becomes fiscinated with a former sweetheart, the "countess Ida" and bewails "what might have been." "Lorle" finally learns the truth and determines to leave her hus-band and return to her father, the venerable "Muller." Refore she takes her departure her husband after a dramatic scene with the countess, returns home and swears to reform, and after a scene in which his pentience is shown to be genuine and it is proved that he loves "Lorle" still, the play ends, with all parties happy and contented.

The fact that theater was packed evidenced the fact that Madame Janish has won a firm hold upon the affections of the Atlanta theater-goers. "Leo nora" was played last night for the first time by the Janish company, and with the exception of an inexcusable "break" on the part of Mrs. Leffingwell, who played "Princess Ida," and the friction attendant upon the first production before the public, the performance was reasonably creditable throughout. Madame Janish was, of course, the central figure, and as the German peasant girl, innocent, capricious and yet coquettish, withal, she was captivating. In the act where she details her childish experiences in the Black forest, and in the trying scene in the last act where she idetermines to leave her husband Madame Janish was, indeed, perfect. She won several recalls and received some ele-gant floral tributes. Mr. Leftingwell as "Reinhardt" was capital, and it was apparent that he is a conscientious artist. Mr. Cooper, as "Muller," was very clever. The dresses worn by Madame Janish were exquisitely beautiful, having been imported expressly for this play; and the costuming throughout was both rich and Robson & Crane.

Judging by the eagerness our theater goers are buying their seats for next Monday and Tuesday, it is safe to predict that Robson & Crane will have the largest houses of the season. Well do these gentlemen deserve this ovation, because they had the nerve and energy to undertake one of the most risky ventures of our time in the theatrical line, investing in it, with their reputations, a small fortune. This revival of Shakspearean con edy surpasses in costliness, beauty, elaborateness and artistic merit any effort which has ever been made, to our knowledge, and it is no wonder that their success has been so great. Last year they gave only the "Comedy of Errors." The liberal patronage of the American people encouraged them to join to it, this year, the "Merry Wives of This last play is certainly the best of Skakspearcan comedies, and the one res the most talent. The Pittsburg Press says of it:

The "Merry Wives of Windsor" was enacted last night at the opera house before the largest and frest intelligent audience that has been assembled there this season. It had been many years stace its presentation in this city. It was the first performance of the comedy by this company, and it was also Mr. Crane's first effort at interpretation of the role of Falstaff. Under these circumstances any temporary lack of smoothness could have been overlocked, but there was no opportunity for the any temporary lack of smoothness could have been overlooked, but there was no opportunity for the extress of the quality of charity. The rehearsals had been so careful and attentive that absolutely nothing occurred to interfere with the evenness or lessen the strength of the representation. The actors were all familiar with their lines and duties, consequently the performance was artistic and theroughly satisfactory in whole and in detail. There is rarely found in these days a company of actors who bring to the rendition of, their parts such enthusiasm and intelligent discrimination as characterized the leading roles in last evening's performance.
